

Do you want to do your part in realising a better future? Do you want to build a sustainable, inclusive, and humane world? Do you want to be part of something greater than yourself?

After a 3-year absence due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the much-awaited University Scholars Leadership Symposium (USLS) for outstanding student leaders has returned to the United Nations.

Humanitarian Affairs Asia is hosting the 11th USLS to gather outstanding young leaders from around the world who are passionate about social change. The summit will be held at the United Nations Conference Centre in Bangkok, Thailand from 1 to 4 August 2023.

Approximately 1,200 emerging world leaders from over 100 United Nations Member States are expected at this prestigious youth leadership event, which focuses on developing leaders to bring about social change.

WHAT DOES THE USLS 2023 OFFER?

- INSPIRATION. Transformational talks with inspirational leaders and humanitarian heroes.
- OPPORTUNITY. Empowerment to initiate socially meaningful projects to address issues such as climate change, poverty, and inequality.
- NETWORKING. Global networking with like-minded peers committed to positive social change.
- PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT. Development of transferable skills, such as leadership and public speaking.
- CAREER ADVANCEMENT. Specially curated workshops by selected United Nations Agencies to learn more about advocacy work.
- VOLUNTEERING. Kindness Service Day of hands-on community activities.
- GLOBAL CITIZENSHIP. Become part of a global community of social changemakers.
